But Noynoy surge in LP puts Roxas in awkward place

By Christine G. Avendaño and Pe Zamora

THE OUTPOURING OF PUBLIC SENTIMENT OVER THE death of former President Corason Aquino and the consequent clamor for her son, Sen. Benigno "Noynoy" Aquino III, to run for higher office may have added luster to the Liberal Party.

But a low profile Sen. Manuel "Bato" Romo, until Cory's death only the fourth acknowledged presidential candidate of the LP is in a somewhat awkward position.

While Romo has in protest his former status in the party's presidential ticket, he cannot do so too strongly as to alienate the pro-Aquino forces in the LP who, if truth be told, would prefer Noynoy to be the party's standard bearer.

Typically, Romo yesterday said he was not determined as yet to run for President in 2010. But in the next breath he said he would submit himself to the party's selection process governing the choice of the party standard bearer.

"There is no turning back for me. I want to make big changes in our country and the presidency is the only stage where I can do it," he said.

3 men of God running; 'GMA must be so bad'

By Dona Z. Padilla

PRESIDENT MACAPAGAL-ARROYO "must be really so bad" that three "men of God" have thought it necessary to join the race for Malacañang in order to put the country to rights.

At least this is how another so-called man of God, Lingayen-Dagupan Archbishop Oscar Cruz, said it.

"These are very interesting times because since I was born, this is the first occasion where no less than three religious men are aspiring for the presidency," said the 74-year-old prelate, an indefatigable and outspoken critic of Ms. Arroyo and her administration.

Skating through the rails in Tagkawayan

IN TAGKAWAYAN, A SECOND-CLASS municipality in Quezon province, "skates" are the king of the railroad tracks.

Skates are improvised wooden sleds that run on steel rails at a simple engine, city block and ferry along the tracks transporting passengers, produce and livestock. They are the only form of transportation connecting Tagkawayan's 45 barangays.

Real buses avoid to pass Tagkawayan, located some 275 kilometers from Manila, and the Philippine National Railways (PNR) ended its service between Metro Manila and the Rail region in 2007.

Many homes have blue and red slats pulled under trees and makeshift garages. They all look alike as they were designed and built by one family in Tagkawayan.

RP, Maldives share common vulnerability to climate change

WHO WOULD HAVE THOUGHT? Filipino hands helped rebuild Vilaafushi Island in the Maldives that was devastated by a deadly tsunami a day after Christmas in 2004.

But forward in last month, Agaña, Philippines and a United Nations delegation led by Sen. Lenor Legarda were in the Maldives to advocate programs for disaster risk reduction and climate change adaptation.

The delegation's choice to be in the Maldives is significant. Based on a UN study, sea level rise is the 3rd and

An estimated 4,000 people perished on that calm and cloudless night five days before Christmas, in what has been described as the world's worst peacetime sea tragedy.

IT WAS ON MILE 35 OF A 22-MILE RUN on the historic Route 66 to St. Louis, Missouri, where I got a call that would change the course of my dream to cross America from west to east on foot.

Running on a slanted shoulder on a Kansas highway, I felt what I thought was a pulled muscle in my left thigh. The contracting pain moved to my groin and then my pelvis.

After treatment from two chiropractors, a cortisone shot from a sports medicine doctor and with the help of an inflammatory medication, I felt better enough to run across Missouri.

I would have gone on to Illinois had the two gaps traveling with me—my mother, Mike Marikina and photographer Danny Trias—not persuaded upon me to see a doctor in Danny's hometown of St. Louis.

There, at the Washington University

Orthopedics, Dr. David Prother had me perform a series of movements—bending forward to touch my toes, raising my knee to chest level—before ordering an MRI of my hip. The next day, the verdict.

"It's a stress fracture," he said. "The story that's not what you want to hear."

Manila—A 200-mile-long island country, the Philippines is one of the most vulnerable to natural disasters in the world, according to a report by the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) released last week. The report, titled "Disaster Preparedness for the Philippines," says that the country is highly vulnerable to natural disasters, especially typhoons, earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, and floods. The report also notes that the Philippines has a high population density, which increases the potential for human casualties in the event of a disaster. The report calls for a comprehensive disaster preparedness plan for the Philippines, including measures to improve early warning systems, strengthen disaster response capabilities, and increase public awareness of disaster risks.

In 2008, the country was hit by three typhoons in the span of 30 days, causing much damage to life and property in Luzon, Visayas, and Mindanao, according to UNDP officials. In 2006, a massive typhoon hit the country, causing significant damage and loss of life. The report also notes that the Philippines has a high level of poverty, which makes it more vulnerable to the effects of natural disasters. The report calls for a comprehensive disaster preparedness plan for the Philippines, including measures to improve early warning systems, strengthen disaster response capabilities, and increase public awareness of disaster risks.

KUMON PHILIPPINES OFFERS FREE TRIAL FOR EIGHTH CONSECUTIVE YEAR

To allow more Filipino children and their parents to experience the benefits of the widely-recognized Kumon Method of Learning, Kumon will be offering for free its Math and Reading Programs for two weeks, starting September 17 to 30.

The Free Trial Campaign allows interested students to go through the same learning routine as regular Kumon students. Participants under the Free Trial Campaign will attend four class days and receive daily worksheets at no cost.

According to Kumon Philippines President Mr. Norihito Nakamura, "With the free trial, Kumon aims to provide parents a clearer picture of what we can do to help maximize their children's potential. More than an organization that assists children with their academics, we also hope to equip the country's next generation of leaders with life skills that will allow them to contribute positively to the community."

Parents interested to enroll their children to join the campaign will be given an orientation to help them gain a thorough understanding of the Kumon Method. Children will then be given a diagnostic test to allow instructors to gauge the participating kids' specific starting point under the Kumon program. This way the children can begin their Kumon experience comfortably and confidently.

After taking the diagnostic test, the children may already be enrolled for the trial. Ku-mon instructors will recommend the appropriate learning program based on the child's readiness level.

Interested parties can visit their nearest Kumon center or call the Kumon head office at (52) 885 0226 or 1-800-1-888-0231 (toll-free outside Metro Manila) to inquire about the Free Trial Campaign. # Gadhafi meets with Lockerbie bomber

Libyan leader's son links Megrahi's release to trade deals with Britain

TRIPOLI—LIBYAN LEADER MUHAMMAD GADHAFI met overnight with Lockerbie bomber Abdelbaze al-Megrahi amid mounting Western outrage on Saturday over the hero's welcome he received upon his return.

Gadhafi's son, Mufti al-Khatib, and Megrahi's return from a British prison on Thursday was linked to trade deals with Britain, allegations which were swiftly denied by London.

The Libyan leader praised Megrahi's return, saying that his "courage" in releasing Megrahi, who is suffering from terminal cancer as a result of his imprisonment, was a "great victory."

At the moment I would like to read a message in Arabic in Tripoli... and I congratulate him on this courage and for having proved that his independence despite the impossible and unreasonable pressures they faced," Gadhafi was quoted as saying by Libya's official news agency.

Libyan television showed images of Gadhafi receiving and embracing Megrahi late on Friday.

Megrahi, the only person convicted for the December 1988 bombing of the Pan-Flight 103, which killed 270 people in the air and scorched ground in the Scottish town of Lockerbie, was sentenced to life in prison in 2001.

Whichever of Megrahi's well-known friends, Megrahi, upon his arrival in Tripoli, declined warnings by the United States that a public celebration might damage relations that have been improving since Libya announced its renunciation of a portion of weapons of mass destruction in 2003.

US President George W. Bush on Friday called the red-carpet reception "inappropriate" and "highly objectionable."

Self of Gadhafi, who traveled to London to accompany Megrahi back to Libya, said in an interview on Libya TV channel Al-Malah.

Jackson burial delayed; judge OKs exhibition

LOS ANGELES—MICHAEL JACKSON'S family on Friday delayed his burial by five days as a judge ruled that a holding show of his memorabilia could go on next year, ending another chapter in their ongoing probe of his turbulent death.

The "Thriller" singer's burial will now take place on Sept. 3 and not Aug. 29, which would have been Jackson's 50th birthday. Jackson's family initially wanted not to wait the day but to be buried on that day, said Leland Melton, attorney for the singer's mother, Katherine Jackson.

Melton said the family was a multimillionaire within the family about the burial date. "I think there were two dates buried originally," Melton said. Jackson, dying from family members' medical care, had died in a suburb of Los Angeles at 7 P.M.

Jackson suffered cardiac arrest and died on June 25. A police investigation into his death appears focused on his use of prescription drugs and on the doctor who treated him.

The federal drug enforcement agency issued a pharmacy in Beverly Hills that Jackson had used.

His family previously denied the home and offices of Jackson's personal doctor, Conrad Murray, who was held in care for Jackson and his brother's late history of drug investigations.

They have reached the office of Jackson's attorney, Dr. David Finkelstein, in recent months.

After six weeks, Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Michael Benkoff approved a deal between Jackson's family and a group of investors to hold a show of Jackson's memorabilia in 2001.

The court said the show's administration has been in recent days, in part because Katherine Jackson's attorney has said they could file a wrongful death lawsuit against Murray and other staff, which could result in a civil suit.

Vitoria foe fighting outside home turf for the first time

MEXICAN CHALLENGER Jose Iribre may find himself in a full out of water when he battles with Filipino-American star Mike Reyes for the title of the 2009 Island Assault MMA event on Aug. 29 at the Mandalay Bay in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Not only will Iribre experience a much warmer climate than the crowd—Vitoria was born and raised in Hawaii—but the Mexican fighter is actually fighting outside of Mexico for the first time in his career.

Iribre has logged 23 fights so far in his professional career, all of them in Mexico. More than half of those fights, in fact, have been staged at his hometown of Culiacan in the Mexican state of Sinaloa.

Vitoria, on the other hand, is expected to take a warm of support from his hometown fans in his defense of his title against Mike Reyes.

But the Hawaiian Punch

Maroons slay yet another giant; Falcons rip Bulldogs

By Jasmine W. Pope

BOOSTING ITS REPUTATION AS A SUPER slayer, University of the Philippines now provided De La Salle's team with an 83-78 upset victory in the UAAP men's basketball tournament yesterday at the FROG Play & Arena in East Ave.

The Maroons, long champions of Ateneo's defending champion Blue Eagles as its opponent, met their early with a big no-hesitate, great Mike Reyes before veteran wingman Mark Lopez took over after scoring through with a key defensive stop in the first quarter.

"The happy we've been there since this year and we're aware the bigger fight, but it doesn't stop there," said coach Alay Canino after the Maroons' win. The Green Archers' fourth straight loss has propelled De La Salle to its first loss.

Reyes scored up with 20 points, the highest scored by a freshman since sophomore Mike Canino delivered the same upset to his alma mater in 2008. The 5-foot-6 guard also recorded a career-high six steals and five rebounds.

One of those rebounds came off a free throw miss by Manila's Gregorio, giving the Maroons another rebound to protect at 81-73 lead, 4:00 remaining.

Lopez finished right at the Maroons' last 20 points in the final four minutes—including a key, high-impact layup—before losing La Salle guard 14-point. Rebounding to close the half with seven assists remaining.

Ciriacruz named NCAA top player

THE CHAMPION'S CALM COMposure on the court belied the impact of his performance on a week. Ateneo University finished its winning streak in the 66th NCAA men's basketball tournament.

With scores here of 31 points and 16 rebounds in the 83-72 triumph of St. Bede's last Wednesday, the 6-foot-4 Ciriacruz was the unanimous choice as the NCAA men's Coach's NCAA Player of the Week.

"He's the heart and soul of his team," said Ateneo coach Remy Almazan of his starting quarterback. Almazan and the Green Archers' victory of at least a playoff for a semifinalist.

Earlier, Almazan faced the more typical game of the season with a 79-58 Maroons victory over National University on Feb. 17.

The Archers have always advanced to the next round since the league introduced the 16-and-four format in 1994, missing the semi-finals only in 2008 when it scored a one-point loss to Ateneo.

Coach Frank Timpane pointed to the Archers' lackluster start as one reason for their semifinal exit.

"The team coming to the game, but it's important for us to have a good start and dictate the tempo, but with this we've learned that again, some thing is the last three games," said Timpane, of the Archers, who finished with a 29-17 record in the first quarter.

The Maroons, who finished their week on end with their shocking 56-58 triumph over the Eagles, took a 46-35 lead in half-time to finish with 15 points, including a perfect 14-0-0 shot from beyond the arc.

"Mike played against his alma mater and the score for really wanted to show his game and to prove to everybody that he belongs in the league," said Canino of Reyes, a former Ateneo La Salle player. "We know what he's capable of coming in, it really changed our game compared to last year."

CRUZ-ENAGE NUPTIALS

Night inspired by precious jewels

By Florio-Arcade

CARLA CHRISTINA Enago and Alfredo Jose "Beto" Cruz said their "I do's" in an elegant, solemn ceremony at Seminario de San Antonio Church.

Carla looked radiant in a vintage-style gown by Sandy Dole, which was exquisite in its simplicity, inspired by her work at home, where she handles the jewelry business, she picked a theme of rich jewel tones. Fabulous hues of sapphire, emerald, amethyst, turquoise, ruby and crystal glowed throughout the theme.

The eye-catching invitations, with motifs of blue sapphires, were also designed by the bride.

Close family and friends were principal guests: long-standing friends and DA District 14 spouses, DA District 14 and Mayor Antonio Rios, Council General Victor Cardon and Linda Hernandez-Gutierrez represented by mother Norma Hernandez, Helen Yachongco and Epi Cacia.

The ceremony was led by both men: Antonio Gutierrez, the groom's father, and pastor Ed. Rios and his brothers were the groom's honorable nephews, Mateo and Adrian Enago. The officiating flower girl was Adrienne Tuley, the groom's goddaughter, and Mia Ylano, the daughter of the couple's good friends Mr. and Mrs. Juan Ylano.

Members of honor were Tula Cruz-Bautista, the bride's sister, and her groom, escorted by husband Leonard Andy Bautista. The groom's single maid of honor, Tania Bautista, who was born the year the bride and groom fell in love, was an exceptionally nice sight as he escorted her down the aisle.

Dr. Fred Brown, the groom's new pastor since last pastor at Southridge and confidence, was honor. The readings were by Charles Cruz and Rhonda Tuley, the groom's childhood pals.

After the church ceremony a night reception was held at Enago's of Mount Shugartia, where we were Leather furniture used to be associated with men's denims, matching the dark wood interiors with a masculine edge. With furniture design evolution and more people appreciating the type of leather goods, today's leather furniture goes beyond the old-fashioned style into sleek, contemporary designs.

At Our Home, the lifestyle store where you can get great designs at great prices, leather takes a big step forward and calls it black and brown contrast to add drama to any room. There are also other leather selections. Leather furniture also goes beyond the living room, making fresh modern statements in the dining room and the bedroom. It also has space-saving designs for condo and townhouse living.

As leather is a very good furniture investment, caring for it is essential. Here are some tips on how to clean and care for your leather collection from Our Home.

- Regularly dust, vacuum or slightly dampen a soft cloth and wipe the leather to remove dust and other dirt. Drying thoroughly is the frequently used method to clean, wash, and buff.
- Use only a good quality leather cleaner and conditioner, so as not to hurt the leather.
- Avoid placing your leather furniture under direct sunlight to avoid premature fading.
